

VANCOUVER INTERNATIONAL AUTO SHOW SET TO RETURN IN 2022

Western Canada's best attended trade and consumer show scheduled March 23-27

For Immediate Release

October 26, 2021

Vancouver, BC: In less than five months, the Vancouver International Auto Show, western Canada's best attended trade and consumer event, will mark its much-anticipated return to the Vancouver Convention Centre West (VCC), following a two-year hiatus due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

As British Columbia gradually moves ahead with its reopening plan, COVID-19 event restrictions have been lifted allowing for full capacity at venues such as the VCC for double-vaccinated attendees. The organizers will ensure the strictest compliance with provincial health orders and prioritize the health and safety of all visitors and participants throughout the duration of the landmark event.

The Vancouver International Auto Show (March 23-27, 2022) has always been a showcase for new technology and the 2022 edition will continue this time-honored tradition, highlighting the absolute latest in new vehicle developments, advanced vehicle safety systems, electric vehicles to charging advancements and new ways for fans and exhibitors to participate and celebrate some of the best the automotive industry has to offer.

"After detailed planning and in-depth discussions with our valued partners, we are extremely excited to welcome back visitors to the Vancouver International Auto Show," says Blair Qualey, President and CEO of the New Car Dealers Association of BC (NCDCA), which also presents the annual Show. "This has been a few years coming, so we are finally counting down the days until we can welcome guests to the Show, which will spotlight a host of new models, features and other exciting developments in the industry."

"After such a challenging period, we would like to thank our partners for their ongoing support and the Vancouver Convention Centre for their long-standing relationship without which we wouldn't be in a position to stage a return of this wonderful event," concluded Qualey.

2022 Auto Show to Feature: EVerything EV

Organizers of the Vancouver International Auto Show are pleased to announce that the event will feature the largest electric and advanced technology showcase in the history of the Auto Show. The exhibit, EVERYTHING EV, will include a significant electric vehicle display with EV's from the world's most important manufacturers, technology displays, electric charging displays and information, test drives of a wide range of electric vehicles, as well as a stage featuring leading experts, panelists, and industry specialists to provide consumers with the latest related to this fast-moving sector.
